Norcal's Jepson Prairie Organics' Compost Facility is located two miles east of Vacaville. The operation processes up to 300 tons of compostable materials a day including food scraps from San Francisco's finest restaurants.

Norcal's food scrap recycling program started in the late 1990's and is now the largest urban compost collection program in America.

We invite you to stop by our wine tasting event to speak with our compost experts. Learn why more than 100 vineyards are using Norcal's FOUR COURSE® COMPOST, and how Norcal is turning kitchen scraps into finished compost that is rich in nitrogen, phosphate, potash and organic matter.

From the dinner table, to local vineyards and back again, Norcal is helping to close the recycling loop.
